Programme of Scenery and Incidents.

PERIOD 1680.

Act. I.—Scene 1.

THE KING'S PALACE AT NEWMARKET.

The day before the Race—the King's Light-weight and his Sweetheart—the Patrons of the Turf—Book-making—Black Sheep—the Tout and the Tip—"A right, true and particular account of all the running horses, the names, weights, and colours of the riders"—the King's mare well backed—"Owner, trainer, jockey, mare, all trustworthy, where is the fear?"

The Captain of the Guard—The Tout and the Jockey—The King meets his False Friends.

A difference of opinion—"the Turf to the trickster is a game of skill"—Meeting of the Conspirators—the Plot—the Watchword—"Death to the Tyrant!"

Scene 2.

EXTERIOR OF THE ROYAL STABLES.

Preparations for a comfortable night—the Trainer's motto—"Safe bird safe find."

Scene 3.

THE LOFT AND STABLES.

Tim Whiffler on the watch—"The mare must be made safe."

WOMAN'S WIT AND WOMAN'S COURAGE.

DISCOVERY OF THE RYE HOUSE PLOT.

THE CARRIER PIGEON.

"Fly, pretty bird, nor rest until the ark of England's covenant is from the waters of rebellion saved."

---

ACT II.

THE RACE COURSE.

"The race, the glorious race, to see the noble bar, impatient for the contest, rear the ground with fiercest rage, until the trumpet's blast gives signal for the start; then at a bound sweep o'er the turf, the skilful rider's hand, applied almost in vain, to curb the strength would else be wasted—side by side the gallant horses run, struggling for victory, which doubtful hangs e'en as they near the post, where horse and man alike their energies display—the rein, the whip, the spur all active, 'midst the shouts of anxious thousands. Each in turn proclaimed the winner, until the best with an impetuous rush just clears the post a neck before its swift antagonist. Oh, 'tis a noble and a royal sport which base chicanery should never mar."

The Tout in his glory—Unexpected issue of the Race—

"THE MARE WINS!"

Scene 2.

ANTE-CHAMBER IN THE PALACE.

The Confederates' Plot—Alice apprises the King of his Danger—her last desperate resolution to save him.

Scene 3.

THE PALACE IN FLAMES.

Act III.—Scene 1.

ST. JAMES'S PARK

Plot and Counterplot—Alice condemned to Death—the Trainer pleads for the life of his Daughter—the King's clemency—

The Traitor's Triumph.

Scene 2.

THE PRISON IN THE TOWER

Alice and the Captain of the Guard—Alice, resigned to her fate, refuses her lover's offer to escape.

"Clemency may be shown to guilt, which I confess not—If when I am gone the proof is found to clear me from this stain, then ask for justice."

Scene 3.

Chamber in the Rye House.

Tim Whiffler apprises the King of his danger—"We want time, your Majesty must make a waiting race of it."—The Confederates' plan for paying their debts to the King—A game for Life or Death—Long odds against the King.

Scene 4.
